MIRIAM HOPKINS and Janet IVA Ross met in Hollywood for the first time since their school days together. Only a few years had passed, but what a change it had made in the two girls! Miriam Hopkins was levelier than ever, charming, poised. Janet was dulllooking, self-conscious, awkward.

"Please tell me," asked Janet, "is there anything an average girl like me can do to be more attrac-

Of course there was! The first step to beauty was to obtain expert advice, so Miriam Hopkins took Janet to Max Factor, the Hollywood genius of make-up. To her delight and amazement, Janet learned that the secret of beauty which had dramatized the loveliness of Miriam Hopkins could be used by anyone.

"Colour harmony make-up will reveal the beauty in your face just as it does with screen stars," Max Factor told Janet. "You shall see for yourself what powder, rouge and lipstick in your colour harmony shade will do."

With the instinct of a true artist, Max Factor selected and applied the colours that would bring out in the dull little face before him, the priceless and clusive thing called beauty. Rachelle powder to enliven the skin and give it satin-smoothness. Blondeen rouge to give alluring lifelike colour to the checks, Vermilion linstick to accent the youthful tone of the lips. PRESENTATION LINCOLNSHIRES

SILVER DRUMS

A unique ceremeny in connection with the 250th anniversary celebra-tions of the Lincolnshire Regiment was witnessed at Shamshulpo Camp yesterday morning when Major-General C. R. Simpson, C.B., Colonel of the Regiment, presented a set of siever drums.

On arrival at the Camp at 11 a.m., Gereral Simpson was received by a Guard of Honour under the command of Captain C, Pennack, with Lieuten-ont A. Wall carrying the Regimental Colour. After inspecting the Grard, the General joined the battalion, which was formed up in close formation in rear. He then addressed the bat-

In the course of his speech the General said, "Comrades, I am here to-day for the presentation, or rather the handing over, of a set of silver drums. The occasion is unique, as it is perhaps the first time, in the history of the Army, at which a regiment has purchased for itself a set of silver drums. As you know this set has been bought with subscriptions from everyone, from the' Colonel downwards. You all know the occasion we are commemorating to-day. It has been difficult to find a suitable way of describing this 250th. Anniversary. It marks the close of two hundred and fifty years service, 'Loyal Service" is the best description. to take over the set of drums." Selected Drummers then stepped forward and took up the set of new drums. When this was completed the Regimental March was played. This was followed by marching and counter-marching by the Band and Drums, several tunes being played.

As a conclusion to the ceremony the battalion marched past General Simpson, who took the saiute.

· · Regimental History

-The Lincolnshire Regiment was among those called into being to deal with Monmouth's Rebellion, but was not until 1692 that it saw active service. This was in the war of the Grand Alliance. For the next 120 years it served in the campaigns of Marlborough, the American ilevolution, the war with revolutionary France, and the Peninsular War. For its services in the campaign against Napoleon in Eleynt it was granted authority to use the Sphinx ıs its' badge.

Up to 1782 the Regiment was known as the Teath Foot, but that year it was directed "to take the county name of the Tentia North Lincolnshire Regiment," and so began the territorial association with the-County of Lincoln.

There is a technique of marriage, and the wife who has mastered it should try to explain it in a simple and direct fashion. She should describe her method of making marriage happy.

There are many wives who could reveal their discovery of the best ways of creating a happy home. They have performed the miracle and they can, if they take the trouble, disclose the secret of their triumph.

The wife who has made her husband happy and her children happy knows how she did it, and she could tell us a great deal. that we do not find in books or in philosophies or in theories.

We know a good wife and a good mother when we see her, and we recognise her power and her influence when we enter her home. But we are sadly ignorant about the processes which are at work in the happy home. If only the good wife and the good mother could make known the secret of her magic, the new wife might imitate her and put her precepts into living practice.

How is it done? Can the new: wife learn the art of marriage? Can she shorten the period of trial and error? Can she profit by the experience of her predecessors?

Whole libraries have been filled with the literature of marriage. Thousands of volumes give advice. We find the wreckage of marriage in novels, plays, and biographics.

MR. BALDWIN ON EUROPE'S DANGER

London, Nov. 8. The Prime-Minister, in a speech t_Leeds_omphasised_again the. Government's decision to do all in its power through the League of Nations to bring peace in the world. When peace came he hoped it would come before too much harm was done. They would have to make renewed efforts to remove the fear that hung 'over Europe. Until then and until the people felt the confidence that peace was assured it was impossible to get that beginning of the flow of international trade which was essential before prosperity could be widespread in Britain.

Abroad one of the things that frightened him more than anything was the way in which parts of Europe, unlike Britain, were not getting more prosperous. There were countries which were getting less and less prosperous. countries in which the standard of life was becoming lower. Until there was such feeling of security in Europe that nations could put vast sums of money and vast numbers of people who to-day were working on munitions into industry, he could see no chance of those countries becoming more prosperous. And conditions in which people were less prosperous, less happy, less comfortable tended to make for less stability. Lovers of freedom in those countries, he declared, were watching Britain at this time and were praying that she should stand firm. -British Wireless.

He stressed the benefits of forming such an association to forward a game that was not sublect to the vagaries of the weather. If a League' were formed, he was sure that there would be plenty of support. He was probably looking. ahead, but there was no reason why in the near future they should not have Interports against Shanghai, Canton and Macao.

Mr. R. P. Phillips also spoke in favour of forming an association. He said he learned his billiards in Hongkong and left here in 1913 for Shanghai. When he came back here in 1930, he was surprised that no local association was in existence. Hongkong, he sald, was behind the

"Great Expectations"

One of the most distinctive pictures of the year is "Great Expectations" the Charles Dickens Novel Universal so faithfully and entertainingly transeribed to the screen. It opened yesterday at the Star Theatre. Of all the Dickens stories, "Great Expectations" is acknowledged to be the best its author ever wrote. It is to the enough money to keep the wolf from credit of Universal to have turned out the door and his nights dreaming that interesting story. A story that emhodies every phase of narrative, from high adventure to seething emotion. It is a picture for everyone in the Samily, from grandpa to grandson. The most important, thing about "Great Expectations" is that it is unique and highly dramatic entertainment. A truly superb cast headed by Henry Hull, Phillips Holmes, Jane Wyatt, Florence Reed, Alan Hale and George Breakston, makes this one of the really outstanding pictures of this or any other time. Hull, foremost Interpretive actor of the American stage, is astoulshing in his many and varied characterisations. He gives a memorable performance. Individual honours are secred by Holmes, Miss Wyatt, Miss Reed and others in an exceptionally large but noteworthy east. Stuart Walker, the director, has performed a difficult task with painstaking care and fidelity to the story The screen play by Gladys Unger deserves commendation in that it has captured and retained the Dickens spirit throughout, while maintaining a modern tempo.
